WESTON GIVES ADVICE
TO CLUB MEMBERS

BY EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

When we walk together again, one week from today, I hope to find all of the boys who were with us last Wednesday in line. You are too enthusiastic about the walking to be missed.

The details and the route of the next walk have not yet been arranged, but they are under consideration. We will have the next walk on Wednesday, February 12, at 7 o'clock.

Any boy who has been on a walk with the E. P. Weston Walking Club should not miss any of the walks. Every one of them is going to be a good one.

Keeping a Boarding House or Furnished Room House

Hard and Ungrateful Work for Any Woman

The fate of a woman wearing out her life trying to make ends meet, trying to please critical people, to pay servants, to pay storekeepers, to pay rent, getting little sleep, working hard early and late, WITH HARDLY A PENNY TO SHOW FOR HER LIFE WORK OR TO BURY HER DECENTLY AT THE END, ought, we should think, to make a man cry rather than laugh.

Every effort that such a woman makes is taken for granted by unreasonable boarders or lodgers. Every inevitable failure is criticized harshly. It is an ungrateful, dog's life, and those that benefit by the efforts of the boarding house keepers, those that are freed from worry and enabled to live at a minimum of expense, ought to show decent appreciation at least.

There is a tragedy represented in the face of a boarding house keeper. No one knows her thoughts, bitterness and sorrow when the day's work is done at last, and the lights are out, and she can put off the mask that her business compels her to wear all day long. Difficulties not understood, efforts not appreciated, complaints without end, constantly increasing expense and worry, these make lines in the face and in the heart.

Thoughtless men and women, full of their own troubles and complaints, would do well to treat with kindness, gratitude and respect the unappreciated, overworked, underpaid, tired and heart-sick HARDEST WORKING AMERICAN WOMAN—the boarding house keeper.

Selfishness and Self-Love

What is the Difference Between Them?

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal Publisher

If you look at a peacock, you see SELF-LOVE.
If you look at a pig rooting his fellow-pigs out of the trough, you see SELFISHNESS.
Self-love is a quality that harms its possessor.
Selfishness is a quality that harms others.
Self-love indicates a foolish head; not necessarily a bad heart.
Selfishness indicates a bad heart, and usually a fairly well-balanced head.

Boston Ought to Fight for Self-Government

By Prof. Frank Parsons

MAJOR HUBBARD has shown evidence of a desire to give Boston an honest and efficient administration, but the bill he has introduced into the Legislature to subordinate the City Council to the Mayor, and to subordinate the Mayor to the City Council, is a measure of such large proportions that it is almost a miracle that it is likely to be passed. The Mayor's Bill, House No. 104, is a measure of such large proportions that it is almost a miracle that it is likely to be passed. The Mayor's Bill, House No. 104, is a measure of such large proportions that it is almost a miracle that it is likely to be passed.

The Atokward Nilghau

By James J. Montague

THE Atokward Nilghau was the latest thing in the world. With its red velvet, its gold and silver, its diamonds and its pearls, it was the most beautiful thing that had ever been seen. It was the most beautiful thing that had ever been seen.

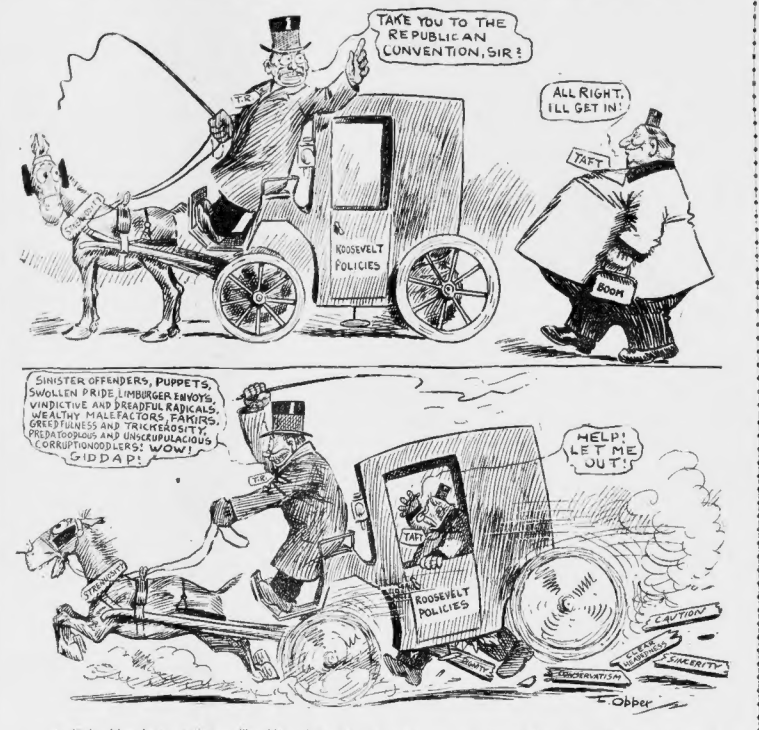

Dictionary of Misinformation

By Wex Jones

TRUTHFULNESS—the absence of lying, the absence of deception, the absence of fraud, the absence of dishonesty, the absence of wickedness, the absence of evil, the absence of sin, the absence of hell, the absence of heaven, the absence of everything.

WOULDN'T IT MAKE YOU MAD—

—after you had seen a cab and a driver and a horse, all of which looked pretty good to you, and you decided to ride—

2—if the driver began cutting up like this, and the horse ran away, and the bottom of the cab fell out, and you had to run! Wouldn't it HAMPSQUOZZLE you?
